New Memorial Plans Ready

Two Entrance Portals To Replace Old Arch As War Dead Tribute

Blueprints for a War Memorial Entrance to replace the old Arch were completed this week, according to Ed Landreth, chairman of the T. C. U. building program. Dedicated to T. C. U.'s war dead of World Wars I and II, the Memorial will consist of two separate portals on either side of the entrance. Steps leading to a floor at the base of the columns and the floor itself will be made of Carthage stone.

The portals will be made of Indiana limestone over a core of ordinary brick. The dedications will be inscribed on bronze plaques placed on the portals and will contain the names of World Wars I and II dead and the names of the members of the class of 1923, which sponsored the building of the Arch as a memorial to World War I dead.

The Arch, one of the most well known landmarks of "The Hill," was torn down Wednesday to permit widening of University Drive by approximately 17 feet. The Memorial will occupy a position corresponding to that of the old Arch at the entrance of the shortened walk leading to the Administration Building, Landreth says.

He continues that the part of the campus facing on University Drive will be re-landscaped to conform with the overall landscaping program. This program will include removal of present sidewalks and building new walks in different locations, he says.

3 States Served by 81 T.C.U. Ministerial Students

In the academic year of 1947-48 a total of 81 churches were served by ministerial students going out from T. C. U. These newly appointed pastors serve in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

In addition to the appointed pastors five members of the faculty served as part-time pastors in churches of Texas. Three students of the University also served as ministerial assistants in Fort Worth churches.

Hearn Denies Affiliation With 'Political Party'

In taking office Monday night, Student Body President Ben Hearn, Jacksonville senior, stated that he "was not elected to that office by any political party."

"Contrary to a story in the local press to the effect that the 'Liberal Party' elected certain people to this Council, there is no political party on this campus to my knowledge, and if there is such a party on the campus I am certainly not a member of it," he said.

Publishers Offer BCB Scholarship

Could you use a $500 scholarship?

Such an offer is being made by the Christian Board of Publication, St. Louis, Mo., to assist a worthy student in obtaining seminary training in Brite College of the Bible, according to information received this week by Dean D. Ray Lindley of Brite College.

"The same rules and regulations previously applied to Christian Board of Publication ministerial scholarships will apply again this year," stated C. D. Pantle, general manager, in his letter.

Application forms to be used by those interested in obtaining this scholarship may be procured in the office of Dean Lindley in Brite College.

Two Ministers Conducting Classes at Brite College

Dr. L. N. D. Wells, formerly minister of East Dallas Christian Church, and the Rev. Bayne E. Driskill, former pastor of Magnolia Avenue Christian Church, Fort Worth, are conducting classes from June 29 to July 16 in Brite College.

"The Stewardship Program of the Church" is being taught by Dr. Wells, and "Effective Evangelism" by the Rev. Driskill.

Last Election Called Void Due to Influence Of 'Pros' During Poll

T. C. U. is only in N. S. A. "temporarily" pending a legitimate election. This statement came out of meeting Wednesday of President M. E. Sadler, Student Body President Ben Hearn and Bryan Weickersheimer. President Sadler said that he considered the last election illegal because the pro-N. S. A. group tried to influence students while voting.

The administration has withheld signing the necessary papers for T. C. U.'s affiliation with N. S. A. Sadler indicated, however, that he would sign the required papers if a proper election was held and if a representative number of students indicated that they wish to affiliate with N. S. A.

Whole-hearted co-operation of the faculty and administration in an election was promised by Sadler. He suggested that if the election were held that it could be conducted in classes to insure a more representative vote "I will send a letter to each faculty member requesting them to allow the voting to take place in the classroom and at the same time the

Article by Dr. Cheverton Will be Published Soon

"The Value of Teaching in the Old Testament," an article by Dr. Cecil F. Cheverton, head of the undergraduate religion department, will be published in an early edition of the Bethany Church School Guide, a technical and inspirational magazine for Bible school teachers.

A description of the undergraduate department of religion in T. C. U. forms the basis of another article by Dr. Cheverton, which will appear soon in the Christian Evangelist.

Draft Explained

Designed to inform students of their status under the Selective Service Act of 1948, President M. E. Sadler points out the following portion of a paragraph of the law:

"Any person who, upon satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction at a college, a university, or similar institution of learning, is ordered to report for induction under this title, shall upon the facts being presented to the local board, have his induction under this title postponed (a) until the end of such academic year or (b) until he ceases satisfactorily to pursue such course of instruction, which ever is the earlier."

The paragraph further permits the president to defer from training any category of students that he deems appropriate.

Convention Set On Constitution

Student Council Names Committee to Arrange To Re-Write Document

Steps were taken by the Student Council Monday night to form a constitutional convention to re-write the Student Body Constitution.

Student Body President Ben Hearn, Jacksonville senior, introduced a resolution of the Spring Council stating that it regarded and "shall continue to regard the Student Body Constitution to be binding and legal until such time as competent authority rules otherwise," but recognizing the "need for amendments to our present constitution or perhaps the writing of a new document," recommended that the Summer Council "establish a delegated constitutional convention to rewrite the constitution prior to the 1948 fall elections."

Don Pierson, senior from Fort Worth, was elected student body vice-president in a 147-to-137 victory over Gene ("Bullet") Abshire, Fort Worth junior, in Wednesday's balloting. J. B. Early, received two write-in votes.

The Council accepted the resolution and Upperclass Representative J. W. ("Red") Brothers, graduate student from Mount Enterprise, was elected temporary chairman of a committee to draft plans for such a constitutional convention. Bryan Weickersheimer, upperclass representative from Lufkin; Junior Class President Dee Kelly, Bonham; and Charles Purvis, student body treasurer, junior from Fort Worth will serve on the committee.

In other actions by the Council following installation of the new officers, Brothers; Senior Class Representative John Enoch, Tyler; and Kelly, were named a committee to recommend a faculty sponsor for the Council.

Purvis; Albert Armstrong, sophomore class representative from Fort Worth; and Lowerclass Representative Bill Hamilton, San Antonio freshman, were named to the budget committee.

Appointment of additional committee members will be announced later. (Continued on page 2)

regular polls can be kept open," Pres. Sadler stated.

Activity on N. S. A. started Monday at the Student Council meeting when a petition of 335 names requesting a referendum on N.S.A. was introduced. Although strong efforts were made by the pro-N. S. A. forces in the Council to pocket the petition until fall, after two hours of heated discussion, the Council passed a motion calling for an election this summer providing that the Administration would consider the vote as representative of the Student Body.

The vote on this motion was 9 to 3 with J. W. Brothers, Wayne Roberts and James Repp dissenting. Hearn and Weickersheimer were then elected to discuss the matter with Pres. Sadler.

It was brought out at this meeting that President Sadler had not signed the necessary documents for proper affiliation with N. S. A. because he did not consider the first election representative of the student body.

Meanwhile, Roberts has been circulating another petition; this one calls for the return to the Student Council of the $400 already appropriated to send N.S.A. delegates to the national convention in Wisconsin and withholding the referendum on N.S.A. until fall. According to the Student Body Constitution a request of this nature will require the signatures of 30 per cent of the students for action. Late yesterday the petition had well over 200 names.

Further action and a complete report on the conference with the Administration will be held at the next Council meeting on Tuesday.

Includes Confucian Scroll

Prof. Fowler Has Collection Of World's Religious Tenets

Anyone on the campus know Indian? Any vets bring back souvenirs from Japan of the country's religion and customs? If so, see George P. Fowler, professor of religion.

Since he has been teaching comparative religion here, Fowler has become interested in typical tenets from each religion in their native language. To date he has a collection of Hebrew, Confucian, and Mohammedan texts framed. "I have some boys working on a Greek quotation now," he said. Victor Siao, Chinese student at

T. C. U., last semester provided the Confucian scroll.

As a sideline, Fowler has a group of Buddhist gods and goddesses, and a temple gong given him by a group of Chinese boys, home-bound. His favorite is a statuette of the Laughing Buddha. "If you rub his tummy and make a wish, it will come true," said Fowler.

Does it work? Last semester's comparative religion students asked to try him out before finals, but Fowler declined and the smiling god still holds his secret.

Forsyth Reports New Additions to Biology Museum

Two "hoop snakes" have recently been received by the biology department, reports Dr. John Forsyth, assistant professor of biology. After their pictures are made they will be added to the museum collection.

Dr. Forsyth explains that they live up to none of their reputation. "In fact," he says, "they are one of the most harmless snakes in America."

According to folklore the snake gets its name from sticking its tail in its mouth, forming a hoop and rolling itself.

Mud snake is now the common name for these black and red reptiles.

Student Body Secretary Ellaveen Childress, Fort Worth junior; Freshman Class President Shirley Hammond of Fort Worth; Lella Ann Garrett, Fort Worth, freshman class representative; and Lower-class Representatives Bill Bogolin and Alvin Durborow were absent Monday night, and will not be official members of the Council until they take the oath of office at a future meeting of the group.

Atherton Draws Ford; Now Ford Draws Atherton

A 27,000-to-1 chance paid off Saturday for Edward O'Day Atherton, Evening College senior.

Mr. Atherton had never owned an automobile in his life. Because he was the holder of the lucky ticket in Saturday's drawing, sponsored by Texas Motors, he is now the proud owner of a four-door 1949 model Ford sedan.

More than 27,000 people held tickets on the car, according to A. A. Lightfoot of Texas Motors. Only one chance was allowed each contestant, he said.

Former Dean of Men Here Dies in Austin

Coleman C. Gulley, A. M. '27, dean of men at T. C. U. in 1926-27, died June 20 at a hospital in Austin. Funeral services were held in Austin, where he had lived for the past 11 years.

Survivors are his wife; a son, Coleman Harrell, Austin; mother, Mrs. J. F. Gulley, and a sister, Mrs. J. W. Norwood, both of Burlington.

Mr. Gulley, a member of the Dublin Masonic Lodge and the Central Christian Church in Austin, was at one time connected with the University of Texas, Eton College at Greensboro, N. C., and Sul Ross College at Alpine. He was 49.

The Community Wide School is sponsored by the Olney Ministerial Alliance.

Mrs. Paul O. Ridings, wife of the head of the journalism department, is ill at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Keep It Clean

Responsibility is inherently implied in the granting of privileges. Because acceptance of responsibility is based on honor rather than on verbal or written commands makes the question no less binding.

Some students are not accepting the responsibilities that accompany the privilege of using the Student Lounge. As a result the continued operation of the Lounge is almost certainly doomed if there is not an improved attitude of co-operation on the part of the student body. There are co-operative students, but enough are guilty of the following "crimes" to keep the Lounge in a constant state of disorder and uncleanness:

Cigarette ashes and butts are thrown on the floor rather than being placed in ash trays located conveniently throughout the Lounge.

Paper and debris are left on tables, chairs and the floor.

Cup holders are not returned to the counter.

Chairs are moved and not returned to their proper place.

On Fridays when The Skiff is distributed, a bundle is placed in the Lounge for the convenience of students gathered there. The bundle is scattered and Skiffs and pieces of Skiffs are left on the floor, chairs and tables.

Gum is stuck on the furniture and counter, and sometimes dropped on the floor.

It is trite to say that students should keep the lounge clean. Such reprimands are used in the early training of infants, but from all appearances the matter is in the hands of overgrown infants. If the shoe fits—take it from there.

Failure to accept responsibility may lead to the revoking of privileges.

An Old Friend

An old friend said goodbye to thousands of T. C. U. students and alumnae this week, taking with it 25 years of tradition as it bowed before the relentless wheels of progress.

The Arch, a memorial to the veterans of World War I constructed by the Senior Class of 1923, was reduced to a pile of rubble Wednesday when the ruthless efficiency of a bulldozer tore the last brick from the foundation. Students had watched Tuesday morning when workmen attacked the memorial structure with sledge hammers, sending the eagle at the peak of The Arch crashing to the pavement 25 feet below to smash to pieces. Brick by brick it went at first, until the bulldozer put a quick end to the $3500 structure.

During its life, The Arch had greeted thousands of students and teachers as they arrived daily at T. C. U. It had been a favorite campus rendezvous, with thousands of students during the last quarter century having said, "I'll meet you at The Arch."

The Arch has stepped aside to make way for the traditions of a new generation. Despite its ignoble physical demise, The Arch can never be destroyed in the memories of the many who regret the passing of an old friend.

The Democratic primary on July 24 will find 54 University of Texas students bidding for seats in the Texas House of Representatives.

Meyers to Vie With "Wives" For Final Word

When Coach "Dutch" Meyer sounds his whistle the first time Sept. 1 for the beginning of practice for 1948, he may think that he is having the last word. Six members of the '48 team know better. They are married.

The squad boasts six members who have made the fatal leap but to date has no future grid greats listed.

Married life seems to appeal to the backs and ends rather than the linemen for not a single guard, tackle or center is wed.

Captain Pete Stout heads the list of the married backs. Two other fullbacks, Otis McKelvy and Homer Ludiker, are also hitched. Tom Bishop is the only wing back to have taken the vows to date. Foy Gaddy and Rex Alford are the only two men from the forward wall to marry. They are ends.

Friendliness Wins Friends For Miss Lou, "Freckles"

If a contest were held to determine who the best-known person on the campus is, it seems logical to conclude that a majority would vote for Miss Lou Rumely and her ever-present companion—Freckles.

Miss Lou, as she is affectionately called by students and faculty alike, has never figured out why everyone knows her on sight, but those who know her best claim they have the answer—friendliness and Freckles.

"Lou remembers names," says a Book Store employee, "and she's never too busy to stop a minute and chat with the students. They like that. As for Freckles, I think he is just about the cutest dog in town."

Miss Lou and Freckles have been managing the Book Store for the past four years and if Freckles doesn't desert his job, she claims they will be there when the next four roll around.

"I've been worried about Freckles lately," she says. "He seems to be losing interest in his floor-walking job here at the Book Store. Every afternoon he runs down to the flower shop and takes a snooze among the daisies and sunflowers. Guess he has been reading too many freshman English accounts of Oscar Wilde."

Eight part-time employees are presently employed at the "busy little corner," selling everything from T-shirts to stuffed donkeys. "Our greatest desire," says Miss Lou, "is to keep everybody happy. Sometimes it is a very difficult task, but Freckles and I enjoy it. We wouldn't trade jobs with a kang."

A LAMENT for the TREES

By Edith Williams

Ah, lovely trees, so innocently slaughtered!

Young sycamores so butchered and bereft!

Gone is your shade where once we gaily loitered.

Gone is the Arch—is one tradition left?

Defaced, disfigured, mangled, mutilated—

The frenzied path of Progress sets its price—

Uprooted and demolished—extirpated;

What meaneth this uncalled-for sacrifice?

Ah, friendly trees, your peaceful days perverted!

Not felled by swift, clean strokes, as trees should be,

But ravaged as by savages! Converted

To chaos in one day's contumely!

Plucked up so rudely—ruined in springtide tender,

Ah, lovely trees, you did not live in vain!

The heavens wept to see your fallen splendor,

And Mother Nature bathed ar-boreal pain.

Office employees, maintenance crews and janitors, who work a six day week, will observe the holiday on Monday, since July 4 falls on Sunday. Monday classes will not be dismissed.
