Latin Poetry New Course Next Fall

Latin may be Greek to lots of people, but not to TCU students who'll be enrolling in a new advanced course in the subject for the first time next fall.

A third-year section in Latin poetry, other than Vergil, will be offered beginning in September, according to Dr. John H. Hammond, chairman of the department of foreign languages.

It will be taught by Mrs. Ida Lou Brands, TCU Latin instructor, and will be open to students who have completed two years of college Latin or four years of high school Latin.

The second semester of the course will also stress methods of teaching Latin, and there is considerable demand now for Latin teachers in Texas and other parts of the country, Dr. Hammond states.

Further information may be obtained from the foreign languages office.

Tyson Adds Another Star

John Tyson added another laurel to a growing list Tuesday when fellow Congress representatives voted him the year's outstanding Student Congress member.

He was an almost unanimous victor over two other nominees for the honor.

Tyson was cited by Congress President Paul Youngdale, for a delegate to the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association and his work as election committee chairman, saying, "He's the one who really made the spring elections work."

The Skiff editorial staff previously had named the Coleman senior to receive the 1959 Skiff Award for outstanding behind-the-scenes work in student government during the past school year.

Student Association Rescue

Thanks to Student Congress help, the senior class will fulfill its plan of erecting a stone and masonry marker on University Drive near the Fine Arts Building.

When the seniors failed to raise the necessary $1,250 needed for the marker, Congress members lent a welcome assistance to the tune of $750. Actually, since the money came out of the general fund of Congress (to which each student contributes $1.25 each semester), the new gift will be from the entire Student Association as well as the seniors and Congress.

This being the case, The Skiff suggests the bronze plaque to be placed on the marker acknowledge that the marker is a gift of the "Class of 1959 and the Student Association." This will give credit where it is due.

The new marker, with its outline of Texas and the words "Texas Christian University" in raised stainless-steel letters, proudly will take its place on campus as still another beautiful and decorative architectural creation.

Another Innovation?

One of the major changes on campus during the last five years was the beginning of the Greek organizations. In August of 1957, a new dormitory was completed to house the women Greeks. Constructed for the use of each sorority was a chapter meeting room, for which each group has been paying over $1,000 yearly.

By paying this rental fee, the sororities were to assume complete responsibility for the rooms. The Panhellenic Council last semester agreed to open the chapter rooms for study after hours in preparation for final examinations. This was on trial basis, under the condition that a woman enter only at or before 11 p.m., and leaving the room for any reason, not be privileged to re-enter.

For any woman to be allowed in the rooms for study, the president, vice president, or house manager was required to be present. Since final examinations, the rooms have not been available for such study.

After all, a rental fee is collected from portions of individual sorority dues and should allow these women the use of the rooms for study after hours.

Finers Keepers, Too!

Traffic violations long have been a gripe of the student on campus, mostly due to the fact that parking regulations are not well known.

In general, traffic tickets are issued for parking in where the curbing is painted yellow; obstruction of traffic where the curbing is pointed yellow; obstruction of traffic; taking up more than one marked space in the parking lots; parking in reserved space or in an area not allowed by the parking permit; parking or driving on lawns and sidewalks without authorization of the chief security officer; failure to observe the campus speed limit or stop sign, and failure to register a car.

These are just a few violations constituting a traffic ticket. If anyone is in doubt about further violations, a list of parking and traffic regulations may be acquired in the Administration Building, Room B-7. Knowledge of these regulations would lessen the disgust at receiving a parking ticket.

Bang! He's Dead

By PAT BECKHAM

Maybe he wasn't very fair, but still they shouldn't have killed him. Poor guy, just because he was choosy about the company he kept, they fed him a bait of sour grapes. He died of a "unanimous" case of the colic.

Old Sportsmanship Trophy was a pretty kindly fellow. He liked TCU. Was reported to have said he'd like to make his permanent home here.

He's cold as last year's Cotton Bowl game now.

He (A. Ward Trophy, that is) spent more of his time at TCU than at any of the other Southwest Conference schools. This was, of course, through the benevolence of the other schools' voting delegates at the semiannual conventions.

This past New Year's Day, he was told he'd been spending half the year at the University of Arkansas and half at TCU, since they had wanted him the most and had sacrificed to win him.

Directly following the period for old business, a delegate from the college on the Colorado spake forth in his very best tea-time vernacular.

"We at The University" said he, "believe the sportsmanship award to be outdated and immature." He went on to appoint the group from Rice Institute (who gladly accepted the role of leadership) as chairmen. In turn (and re-turn), the Rice spokesman appointed his buddy from SMU & Co. to join Rice and Texas in deciding whether the trophy should be continued.

Also, in the course of the meeting, it was brought out that business could not be transacted legally unless a quorum (5 of 8 conference schools) was present.

Yet, when Miss Beth Morris, next year's Skiff editor, and Jimmy Davis, the incoming head yell leader, arrived at Texas A&M last week late for the spring meeting, they were informed that it had been decided to abolish the award and trophy. Poof! A dozen years of tradition gone.

Beth and Jim were surprised that the five schools represented had made the decisions by themselves, but being new to the committee-ing racket, they listened. Paul Youngdale, Joel Hurley and myself (who oddly enough had legitimate excuses for being absent) had, like meatheads, not informed our subs of the wiles of some of their associates.

When our kids found old Trophy dead, and saw only a few shaded tears being shed by the pallbearers (those who were present), there was little recourse.

After all, dead's dead, and he was born in Aggieland, anyway. A Battalion bore him, but a battalion probably couldn't bring him back.

SW Campus Confidential

By JACK HARKRIDER

SMU—

The Campus tells of an odd program for all girls attending summer school:

"Lists for girls who wish to participate in the Colt-Wrangler program this summer will be posted in each girl's dorm and sorority house."

OK, you wranglers, here's your chance to latch on to that purty little filly you've always had your eye on. Them wild colts is open for anybody's brand. Let's pound leather, boys.

A&M—

Our little khaki-covered friends will put on a big show this weekend, according to the Battalion.

"The wildlife exhibit in the department of wildlife management to be conducted Saturday will present one of the most unusual exhibits ever to be shown on the A&M campus."

In the past, this show has been known as the Annual Cadet Corps Review.

Could this be a goodwill gesture from the Aggies?

"The 14th annual Crippled Children's Clinic was held Monday at the A&M Presbyterian Church.

"The purpose of the clinic was to seek out crippled children and restore them to normal health."

The next clinic will be held for the mentally unbalanced. There will be two sessions since more than 4,000 Aggies signed up for the clinic.

It looks as though A&M is having a hard time getting students to attend school. For example:

"First-grade students may begin pre-registering at A&M Consolidated School this afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. in the school cafeteria, school officials announced yesterday."

The state of Texas should be proud of the Kiddy Korps. It's about time they raised their academic standards.

A large picture in the Battalion gave evidence to the following:

"This planter-fountain will be presented to the Memorial Student Center Parents' Day at 2:30 p.m. by the Austin A&M Mothers Club. The fountain is in honor of the former students from Austin who died in the last two years."

It has been said that the only good Aggie is a dead Aggie. True or false?

TECH—

A headline in the Toreador read:

"Choir Trials to Start."

Good idea! However, there are some school choirs that should be lynched without the benefit of trial.

BAYLOR—

The Lariat had a happy announcement for the Bear campus recently:

"The Sun Pool, in the 800 block of South 15th Street, will open officially today. Everyone may swim free from 3 to 7 p.m."

Tomorrow, the owners plan to put water in the pool and start charging admission.

SCHULTZ IS A MANY SPLENDORED THING

Beppo Schultz, boulevardier, raconteur, connoisseur, sportsman, bon vivant, hail fellow well met—in short, typical American college man—smokes today's new Marlboros.

"Why do you smoke today's new Marlboros, hey?" a friend recently asked Beppo Schultz.

"I smoke today's new Marlboros," replied Beppo, looking up from his 2.9 litre L-head Hotchkiss drive double overhead camshaft British sports car, "because they are new."

"New?" said the friend. "What do you mean—new?"

"I mean the flavor's great, the filter's improved, the cigarette is designed for today's easier, breezier living," said Beppo.

"Like this 2.9 litre L-head Hotchkiss drive double overhead camshaft British sports car?" asked the friend.

"Exactly," said Beppo.

"She's a beauty," said the friend, looking admiringly at the car. "How long have you had her?"

"It's a male," said Beppo.

"Sorry," said the friend. "How long have you had him?"

"About a year," said Beppo.

"Have you done a lot of work on him?" asked the friend.

"Oh, have I not!" cried Beppo. "I have replaced the pushrods with a Roots type supercharger. I have replaced the torque with a synchromesh. I have replaced the tachometer with a double side draft carburetor."

"Gracious!" exclaimed the friend.

"I have replaced the hood with a bonnet," said Beppo.

"Land o' Goshen!" exclaimed the friend.

"And I have put gloves in the glove compartment," said Beppo.

"It's a male," said Beppo.

"My, you have been the busy one," said the friend. "You must be exhausted."

"Maybe a trifle," said Beppo, with a brave little smile.

"Know what I do when I'm tired?" said the friend.

"Light a Marlboro?" ventured Beppo.

"Oh, pshaw, you guessed!" said the friend, pouting.

"But it was easy," said Beppo, chuckling kindly. "When the eyelids droop and the musculature sags and the psyche is depleted, what is more natural than to perk up with today's new Marlboro?"

"A great new smoke with better 'makin's' and a great new filter!" proclaimed the friend, his young eyes glistening.

"Changed to keep pace with today's changing world!" declared Beppo, whirling his arms in concentric circles. "A cigarette for a sunnier age, an age of greater leisure and more beckoning horizons!"

Now, tired but happy, Beppo and his friend lit Marlboros and smoked for a time in deep, silent contentment. At length the friend spoke. "He certainly is a beauty," he said.

"You mean my 2.9 litre L-head Hotchkiss drive double overhead camshaft British sports car?" asked Beppo.

"Yes," said the friend. "How fast will he go?"

"Well, I don't rightly know," said Beppo. "I can't find the starter."

New Math Group Is First in State

TCU has become the first university in Texas to establish the Pi Mu Epsilon, a national math fraternity, on its campus. The organization is made up of junior and senior students with an over-all 3-point average and a 3.25 math average.

The officers and charter members of the organization were recently installed by Dr. J. Frame, national director of the fraternity and professor at Michigan State, at a dinner in the Student Center.

The officers installed were Fred Womack Jr., Fort Worth junior, director; Jane Harlan, Galveston senior, vice director, and Joyce Hubenak, Fort Worth senior, secretary.

Riposte, Zzzzt!

Editor, The Skiff:

Pitchfork in hand, I come to stand among the guilty. I cannot write a masterpiece of 4-syllable words to match that of Mr. Morgan, but if you will excuse my pseudo-intellectual 2-syllables I shall try to say a few words.

Perhaps this is my childhood innocence, but I have oft been told that you cannot justly judge a large number of people by the personality, attitude, and beliefs of a few of that number. Where did Mr. Morgan get the authority to stand up and call the whole School of Fine Arts (with the exception of a few students he considers talented) a prejudiced, narrow-minded, stifling corner on this campus? Is he that familiar with each of the divisions, professors, and many students in the school?

His glittering generalities could probably be aimed at a segment of any school on this campus, but at a segment only. True, it is unfortunate that such people and attitudes exist, but why say the whole world is wrong?

I, too, am "enrolled," and I would be the last to say the School of Fine Arts is perfection personified, but neither am I, neither is TCU, or Fort Worth—or I dare say, Mr. Morgan.

If he can see no creativity, individuality, or culture in the School of Fine Arts, perhaps he should exit the Green Room, and look further! And even examine his own "proclivity."

Most sincerely,
JOYCE NICHOLSON.

Wham! Broadside

Editor, The Skiff:

There goes that pot calling the kettle black again. In spite of Mr. Morgan's assumption that any replies attacking his letter of Wednesday, May 13, would mean that he had pinched some toes, the only reason my toes are pinched is that the shoe is ill-fitting. And here I am probably biting on a very obviously baited hook.

Mr. Morgan's letter was indeed a masterpiece of vocabulary, phraseology, glaring generalities, and truly stellar clichés; and effort, and worthy talent to compose such a display of genius, which might otherwise have been spent constructively in executing assigned, but unfinished, class projects.

His epistle did prove another point, too—one that I have always suspected, but without previous verification—that Mr. Morgan's personality does have an intelligent, logical, practical, level-headed, profound, and not-to-mention intellectual facet other than his usual unco-operative, shallow, immature, frustrated, degenerate, and embarrassing display of vulgarity, which has most assuredly degraded him in the opinion of many of the Fine Arts majors and professors, including the few whom he might care to impress favorably.

Perhaps if he would spend a mere fraction of his cherished time and effort in carrying out assignments, attending classes, labs, and rehearsals, and co-operating with professors and fellow students (without the interference of petty indignation), and less time musing bitterly over the cruel casting of his lot and the waste of his "special" talent, he might—mind you, he just might—learn to like us a little. Actually, I suppose he is "more to be pitied than censured," for anyone with such a "vitriolic" attitude as his cannot possibly like himself.

My only advice to Mr. Morgan is that if his creative instincts and artistic abilities cannot be nurtured and cultivated at TCU in a way which meets with his approval, he had best make his bed elsewhere. I hope I have made my point quite clear. Thank you.

Yours truly,
AMANDA MURRAY.

FROG FORECAST: CONTINUED INFLUX OF TOP SCHOOLBOYS

from the sideline

By LEE GRIMSLEY

BEN HOGAN is a lot like other people. He just happens to win a few more golf tournaments than the majority of us do. It was only fitting that Hogan should win the National Invitation Tournament at Colonial recently. That's his home course, the one where he plays golf most. This leads people to say, "Hogan should win it every year. He plays that course enough and he should know every blade of grass." This is true, but as the tired, 47-year-old newly crowned NIT champion said in the club house, "There's a tremendous difference between playing in a tournament and going out every day and playing for the fun of it." The main difference he was referring to was the $5,000 first-prize money Colonial officials present the winner each year. Hogan is no spring chicken. He usually rides around in a golf cart, but during the five grueling days of the NIT he had to walk around the 7,021-yard layout at Colonial. Bantam Ben isn't able to make too many trips of that nature, so he's given up the summer tour. "I'm going to play more golf, play in more tournaments," Hogan told writers after the NIT. "But that doesn't mean I'm going on tour. I will play in the Memphis Open, then go to the National Open."

The story of Hogan's life has been a story of success. He was nearly killed in a head-on crash with a bus. For a while, doctors weren't sure if he would live, but they were sure he would never play golf again. They forgot to tell Hogan, however, and he came back to become the most feared player in the history of golf.

One interesting sidelight to the tournament came when Hogan was presented the MARVIN LEONARD TROPHY for the fifth time in his career. "The last time I won this tournament, I asked Mr. Leonard when I would get to keep the trophy," Hogan told the gallery. The trophy, it might be pointed out, is kept by the NIT champion for only a year. Then it is given to the next champion.

"He told me the next time I won the tournament I could have the trophy," Hogan continued. "That happened and I'm sure Mr. Leonard is a man of his word. So I'm going to have to keep the trophy and Mr. Leonard can buy a new one."

WOWSVILLE OR WHO'D A THUNK IT DEPT.: What's this with the Washington Senators being in fourth place in the American League and HARMON KILLEBREW making like BABE RUTH with the bat? Such things just aren't supposed to happen, but it provides a long-suffering Senator fan with the opportunity to say, "I told you so." Suddenly the Senators have decided they're a ball club and they're even polishing off The Bad Men (New York Yankees) with regularity. What is even more amazing is the rise of Killebrew. He was an also-ran in the batting department last year while playing with Chattanooga of the Class AA Southern Association. He stuck with the Senators this spring and is now leading the American League with 12 home runs, far ahead of Babe Ruth's pace of 1927. The quote of the week came from Killebrew's wife. A sportswriter asked her why there was so little furniture in their Washington apartment. "We didn't think Harmon would be up here over a month," she said, "and we didn't want to have to carry everything back to Chattanooga, so we just left the furniture there." Chances are the furniture is on its way to Washington now.

"Wait till next year," has a special meaning for Athletic Director Dutch Meyer. It means that one of his Frog teams probably will repeat with a Southwest Conference championship.

This would be Abe Martin's football charges, who will be loaded for bear when the season opens in September.

Under Meyer's direction, the Frogs have landed the cream of the schoolboy crop of athletes this spring.

James Parker, 2-time all-state fullback from Sweetwater, and Bob Seymour of Paschal, son of a former Oklahoma All-America fullback, already have signed TCU letters of intent.

Donnie Smith, one of the fastest running backs in the country, is the most recent addition, along with Jerry Jack Terrell of Carter. Jerry is the younger brother of Frog Halfback Yank Terrell.

ABE MARTIN

Add to this the holdover veterans of last fall which includes All-America Tackle Donald Floyd, Jack Spikes, Sherrill Headrick, Larry Dawson, Harry Moreland, Donald George and a host of others, and the Frogs spell death on the gridiron for some aspiring national powers.

Brannon has done himself proud in the basketball recruiting, landing four all-staters and still standing a chance at nabbing Lewis Qualls, the 7-1 giant from Houston Smiley.

Already in the Frog fold are 6-1, 190-pound Tom Pennick of Houston Bellaire, recognized as one of the fastest cagemen in the state; 6-9 Alton Adams, a scoring and rebounding artist from Houston Milby; Don Rosick, 6-7 all-state center from Poly, who broke Dick O'Neal's city high school scoring record last winter, and Johnny Fowler of Poly, another all-stater and brother of former Frog fullback, Mal Fowler.

The athletic department has gone all-out in recruiting this spring, and the results show it—they landed the best there is.

Woods and Waters

By GEORGE GOULD

What? You say you didn't catch any at all? Bud, you must be dropping your line in the wrong place, or else you're not keeping your mind on fishing. For the last four or five days, things have really been picking up.

The only thing that has been hindering ideal fishing is the wind, and it always seems to blow up on the weekends when everybody wants to get out. Lake Whitney, Possum Kingdom and Grapevine have been giving local fishermen a real thrill. Reports are drifting through about 5-, 6- and 7-pounders. Fort Worth lakes, including Eagle Mountain, Worth and Benbrook, are yielding some action, but you've got to hit at the right time. If you can get into the middle of a shad run when the black bass are feeding, you're in for a real ball.

For the first time this season, bass are taking to surface lures. Best results are had by fishing them early in the morning and later on at dusk. The more noise your bait makes, the better results you get. Poppers, jitterbugs and crawlers seem to be popular on the success list.

It is quite surprising to see that there are still a few ducks on Texas ponds, and these are not the variety that you'll find around here most of the year. Reports have come in from biologists in the Canadian provinces that ducks are pouring in on schedule, but have run into some difficulty. Droughts are cutting valuable water space, and food is being cut to the very minimum. Also, as a direct result, nesting and breeding is slowing down. We can still look for a good season next year, however.

Good news for all amateur Robin Hoods. The Texas Game and Fish Commission, after all these years and many letters, has finally authorized a special deer season for archers. This season will come before the regular gunning season, but each county will determine its own dates. There will be a certain amount of time specified that will fall between the two seasons. The special bow season may run into the rifle season, but it cannot go beyond.

For Texas deer hunters, it means doing some real hunting—no more of this sitting up in trees with a cup of coffee waiting for a big buck to walk up and ask to be shot. If you want to get him with an arrow, get yourself a book out of the library on hunting, preferably by an Indian.

What has happened to the American bald eagle? The United States Department of the Interior has asked all states to co-operate in helping them find out why this bird is on the way out. Our national emblem for years, the bald eagle may not be with us for many more years. Sportsmen are asked by the Texas Game and Fish Commission to report any signs of his whereabouts. A few nesting places have been found, but they are being kept a secret to prevent molesting by the general public. A heavy fine will be imposed on any person who kills or disturbs the birds.

While on the subject of birds that are slowly becoming extinct, Texas is the home of the few surviving whooping cranes. The last official count revealed no more than 20 birds, and all are living on one island off the Texas coast. If an unusually heavy wind should come up or an epidemic set in, you'll see the last of these cranes. No one knows exactly why he is disappearing, but everything is being done to preserve the few that still remain.
