THORP SPRING, TEXAS.

March 14, 1894.My dear Sam:

The inclosed slip from the Ft. W. Gazette will be of some interest to you. You will see that our young ladies were in the lead every way. Our third term began yesterday. Quite a number quit. Times are so hard that many cannot remain in school. When the free school closes, Sister will hardly have enough to keep her company. There will be quite a falling off from the prep there also. I sent you some papers yesterday. You will see my acct. of our meeting trouble. If all the teachers had stood by me I never would have consented to any change in our operations. It was simply yielding to a most un-pleasant interference with our school work. I have been preaching for this church for years without remuneration, and when I undertake to have a meeting for the benefit of the school they must get up such a protest as to draw off a large number of the pupils and "rattle" two or three of our teachers. In this way hindering and embarrassing the meeting. After the organ was taken out many of them never came about the meeting, being promised that they would cooperate in the meeting on the condition that the organ be removed or kept silent.

Beautiful Spring weather. Peach trees all in full bloom; flowers springing up every where; little boys and girls turning them - about Forefoot; cows running from bull flies, &c, &c.
Keep well - Aff. A. Clark.
