Dear Amon:-

I haven't answered your letter of November 28th sooner because I have just got home. The trip we started together was finished when I got into New York on the Lafayette Thursday night. It was very much of a grand experience all the way along, but not nearly as gay and amusing during the last half of it. You and the rest of the party were very much missed.

I hope you have gone ahead with the idea you outlined in your letter of the 28th for a souvenir to be given to Juan and Sonny. I am all for it. When it's finished, don't you think we ought to go up to New York and present it in person, with a little suitable quaffing and dining?

When you know what my share of the cost is, please let me know.

Mrs. Patterson tells me a turkey has arrived at the house -- a cooked turkey. We are going to eat it tonight. She tells me that it came from Texas, but neither Mrs. Patterson nor my secretary have any other indication of the donor. I suspect you. I thank you on that suspicion.

Sincerely yours,

Amon G. Carter, Esq.,
