Dear Mr. Carter;

Is there anything that an ambitious young Texan can do to work for American Airlines besides file the customary application?

I am 25, single, just out of the University of Texas and have two years on the Houston Post and three years in publicity and exploitation with Interstate Theatres--all prior to attending the University. I feel that there is a great future in air travel and that I could be an asset to the publicity or advertising department of American Airlines.

Amon Carter, Jr. will make an excellent personal reference as we were friends at the University. Others include Lloyd Gregory, Dr. Homer P. Rainey.

Any assistance or advice you might give me would be appreciated.

Thank You,
