CLIBURN GIFT TO AID HUNGARIAN MUSICIANS

Hungarian musicians will have opportunity to study at TCU as a result of a gift to the University by internationally famed pianist Van Cliburn. The distinguished artist's gift of $5,000 will be the foundation for establishment of the Franz Liszt Memorial Scholarship in the College of Fine Arts and Communication.

"Van Cliburn's gift, timely as well as thoughtful, will establish yet another link between TCU and Eastern Europe," said Chancellor Bill Tucker. "My colleagues and I are deeply grateful to him for enhancing the life and work of the University."

Cliburn, who was awarded an honorary Doctor of Music degree by TCU in 1982, announced his gift during a recent dinner honoring Mayor Bielik Jozsef and a delegation from Budapest as part of the Sister Cities program. He also announced a gift of $5,000 to the Liszt Academy for a Rildia B. O'Bryan Cliburn Scholarship in honor of his mother.

"We are extremely pleased with Dr. Cliburn's generous gift and for the recognition which it will bring to the TCU piano program," said Dean Bob Garwell of the College of Fine Arts and Communication. "The scholarship will help in solidifying our partnership with the Liszt Academy and the Hungarian people of Eastern Europe and will serve to enhance the cultural diversity of our present student body."

Inauguration of the Liszt Memorial Scholarship fund was described as a "wonderful gesture to enhance the cultural linkage we hope to establish between Fort Worth and Budapest" by Tamas Ungar, Budapest native and TCU associate professor of music.

TCU is one of the founding sponsors of the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. Both preliminary and semifinal events in the quadrennial competition are held on campus.

KITCHENS RECEIVES LEADERSHIP AWARD

Larry Kitchens, director of instructional services since 1987, was honored Feb. 1 during the national convention of the Association for Educational Communications and Technology in Anaheim, CA. In recognition of "outstanding leadership in the field of educational communications and technology and service to local, state, regional and national activities in AECT," he was presented the 1990 William R. Fulton AECT Region VII Leadership Award. The region includes a six-state area.

During the convention, Larry's nomination for president of the organization was accepted. Voting is set for the next convention, for which he is general chairman, in Florida in 1991. He also was recognized as 1989-90 president of the association's Division of Educational Media Management.

USA TODAY LIST INCLUDES WERTH

Senior James Werth is among students in American colleges and universities recognized recently by USA Today as "the best and the brightest." The national newspaper selected 20 students for a first All-USA College Academic team along with 20 each for second and third teams.

Chosen by a panel of educators, they were selected on the basis of "their outstanding blend of scholarship, initiative, creativity, leadership -- and for their willingness to use that talent to benefit others." In announcing the listing, judge Elaine El-Khawas of the American Council on Education said: "They rise beyond self. And that's leadership."

One of only five persons attending Texas institutions who were included in the 60 and one of only two on the first and second teams, James is a psychology major whose research interests are college students' attitudes toward AIDS, its victims and AIDS education. He works in the Counseling Center.

CAREER CENTER REPORTS INCREASED ACTIVITY

Career Planning and Placement Center director Carolyn Ulrickson says more students received career counseling and attended on-campus interviews during the fall semester than in the fall semester of 1988. Counseling appointments rose nearly 50 percent over the fall 1988 total. Fall 1989 appointments totaled 347,101 more than a year ago.

The number of on-campus interviews rose 58.6 percent over the 1988 figure. Carolyn attributes the increase to a new lottery system that helped determine when companies needed additional recruiters to meet an overflow demand.

Business-related majors were the most popular among recruiters with 58 percent seeking students with M.B.A., accounting, business or marketing degrees.

'GODSPELL' GOES TO THE MALL

The 1971 musical "Godspell," which ran on- and off-Broadway seven years in its ghetto setting surrounded by a wire fence, is in revival this year in New York and here. TCU's Feb. 21-25 production of the upbeat musical has been updated to a shopping mall, with the frolicking young cast dressed in clothes right off the rack.

A happy, smiling Jesus, who wore a clown suit and a Superman sweat shirt on Broadway, adds formal wear to his basic Superman T-shirt here. He tells his followers about love and morals just like a teacher, and they respond in a childlike (not a childish) manner with energy, gaiety, honesty and spirit. On Broadway Jesus was crucified on the wire fence, which became the cage from which neither Judas nor the rest of the cast could escape. In the Theatre TCU version, Jesus (played by freshman theatre major Bradley Clark of Deer Park) is crucified on a clothes rack, and Judas (Jeff Bateman, sophomore theatre major from Omaha, NE) and the others are trapped in a locked, deserted mall.

The production has been updated by theatre chairperson Andy Harris and will be guest-directed by Andre Rotkiewicz of Richardson, whose directing of ensemble-developed plays like "Godspell" has received international attention. As actor, director and teacher, Rotkiewicz has experience in the United States and in his native Poland.

"Godspell" will be staged in Student Center ballroom as the University's first dinner theatre production, with full service dinner catered by Marriott Corporation at 7 p.m. nightly Feb. 21-24 and at 1 p.m. Feb. 25. Show times will be 8:15 p.m. Feb. 20-24 and 2:15 p.m. Feb. 25.

TCU and senior citizen prices for dinner and the show are $9 Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Sunday matinee, $12 Friday and Saturday evenings. General admission is $1 more. Cost of dessert and the show is $8 for all performances. Dessert will be served during intermission.

Reservations may be made by calling Ext. 7929, and tickets must be picked up at the Student Center information desk by 5 p.m. the next weekday. All reservations must be paid for and picked up at least 48 hours prior to each performance. "Godspell" is a fund-raiser for Alpha Psi Omega's scholarship fund.

"Godspell" music -- favorites like "Day by Day," "All Good Gifts" and "You Are the Light of the World" -- will be backed by a live band on stage. Choreographer is former cheerleader Stephanie Bratz of Palestine, senior theatre major/dancer with a background in acrobatics and tumbling.

5-WORKING DAY POLICY TO BE ENFORCED

The policy of allowing five working days to generate a check after an invoice is received by the accounts payable will be strictly enforced, according to an announcement from the controller's office. More adherence to this policy is the result of increased volume. All efforts will be made to process invoices before five days, but departments are urged not to anticipate receiving their checks prior to that time. Persons with questions should contact Deanie Sewell at Ext. 5120.

SWIMMERS, DIVERS RECEIVE NOTICE

The men's swimming and diving teams were in the national spotlight late last month when they were among aquatic teams from across the nation receiving votes for Top 20 NCAA rankings. Although the Frogs were not in that select number, this was the first time in TCU swimming history that Frog swimmers and divers had received such national attention.

"Our win over A&M and Arkansas and last year's tie with SMU really helped win us a lot of respect from other teams and coaches," said Coach Richard Sybesma. "If we do a great job at the Southwest Conference meet, we may have a legitimate shot at the Top 20."

The leading 10 teams in the nation, in order, are Texas, Southern California, Stanford, Tennessee, Michigan, Cal-Berkeley, Iowa, UCLA, Florida and Alabama. The only Texas school in the next 10 is SMU. In recent competition with the University of Texas, whose women's team is ranked second in the nation, TCU's Gretchen Brannon set a school record in the 400 IM and tied her school record in the 200 butterfly.

STUDENTS, AD CLUB JOIN IN PROJECT

Habitat for Humanity, the Christian housing ministry endorsed by former President Jimmy Carter, may soon be much more widely known. The enhanced awareness will be thanks to the combined efforts of advertising students and the Advertising Club of Fort Worth.

Three TCU classes will be involved in the project to create and execute a public service awareness campaign. The Ad Club chose Habitat for Humanity as one of its public service projects and contacted faculty members Jerry Grotta, Jack Raskopf and Carol Lennox to see if their campaigns, advertising copy, layout and production classes would be interested in a joint effort.

"We are thrilled to have the interest and help," said project committee chairperson Barbara Frink. "Instead of a committee of four or five from Ad Club, we will have the enthusiastic assistance of about 25 or more students in our effort to gain exposure for Habitat."

BEQUEST FUNDS JARVIS-MCDERMOTT ENDOWMENT

A bequest in the amount of $624,031 has established the Jarvis-McDermott Endowment. The donor is the late Ann Day Jarvis McDermott, TCU graduate who was a professional staff member at Mary Coats Burnett Library from the late 1960s until her retirement in 1981. The gift from her estate is unrestricted.

Ann, who died in May of 1988, was a member of two pioneer Texas families. She was the granddaughter of early Texas philanthropists Col. J.J. and Ida Jarvis, who served on TCU's board of trustees in 1889-1896 and 1928-37, respectively. Daughter of the couple's youngest son, Ann was graduated from Fort Worth's Central High School and earned her degree in languages at TCU in 1938.

After three years in the U.S. Marine Corps, she married Marine recruiter Jack McDermott. The couple lived in Washington, London, West Germany, Mexico and San Salvador in conjunction with his position with the U.S. Information Agency.

Ann, who was special collections librarian for nine years, earned the master's degree from then-North Texas State University and did graduate study in archival management at the University of Illinois.

ALPERT WILL SPEAK TO RETIREES

"Politics of the 1990s" will be the topic for political scientist Gene Alpert Feb. 22 when he speaks at this month's meeting of the TCU Retirees Association.

The associate professor, who also directs the M.L.A. program, has been a first-hand observer of the national political scene in his role as director of TCU students participating in semester-long internships and study through the Washington Center, the non-profit living-learning laboratory conducted in the nation's capital.

Gene was academic supervisor/coordinator for classes held in conjunction with both the national conventions in 1984 and 1988. He also wrote the convention guide that was distributed nationally by Cable News Network in 1987. Last year he taught the M.L.A. class, "Inauguration '89: The Transfer of Presidential Power," in Washington that included on-campus lectures in late fall before the Jan. 15-21 session in Washington that included briefings, site visits and participation in inaugural events. TCU students were joined by their peers from across the nation for that study.

To begin at 11:30 a.m., the retirees luncheon will be at Colonial Cafeteria at 5100 Trail Lake Drive.

STUDENT INTERN SELECTED AS 'FUTURE CEO'

Steve Rowell may be the next CEO of the Walt Disney Company. At least that's what more than 800 college interns in the Walt Disney World College Program and 40 of the company's managers think.

As one of five college students selected from 295 applicants in North Texas to take part in the company's prestigious management training program last fall, the junior human relations/communications major joined some 800 students from campuses across the nation for a semester internship. Steve, son of Cy Rowell (Brite), worked at the Grand Floridian Beach Resort and studied the company's philosophy and management techniques in 10 business seminars.

At the end of the program, he was voted by his peers and Disney management as the college intern most likely to become the Mickey Mouse conglomerate's next leader. "The college program is an incredible opportunity," he said. "It is probably one of the greatest four months you could spend in your life."

In recommending Steve for Time Magazine's Achievement Award, Jody Lewis, education coordinator of the Walt Disney World College Program, wrote, "Don't be surprised if one day he becomes your 'Man of the Year.'"

SMALL-TOWN LIFE IS NEW BOOK'S THEME

"The Last Innocent Summer," the newest TCU Press release, is a story about a small town with a swimming pool, a Ritz Theater, a city park, a town square and a J.C. Penney store. It's a story about slumber parties, funerals, community picnics and local intrigues. It's also a story about honor and caring and the way we live our lives.

In the summer of 1931, the death of two young girls changes life forever for 10-year old Juanita "Skeeter" Haynes. The small East Texas town of Harris Hill finds itself rocked by scandal and a murder trial, and Skeeter finds herself learning some disturbing lessons. Skeeter's family is middle-class, close-knit and caught in events beyond control. Her father teaches at the local college and coaches ball teams; her mother loves to garden, tries to take care of the world and banishes trouble by singing "Amazing Grace"; her sister, Loreen, loves to primp before the mirror and gossips to make herself popular. Skeeter loves Loreen, but she isn't always sure she likes her. Told in Skeeter's own words, this story reflects the values and attitudes, even the language, of a time and place now almost gone and draws the reader into the bittersweet days of one girl's last innocent summer.

Novelist and storyteller Zinita Fowler was born and raised in Commerce, the city that becomes Harris Hill in her novel. She was Skeeter, the novel's narrator, and some of the events of the novel really did happen. She is the author of three other books—"Ghost Stories of Old Texas," "Monster Magic" and "Gotcha!" A teacher in the Texas public schools for many years, she is now librarian at the Akiba Academy in Dallas.

The 144-page volume is a Chaparral Book for Young Readers. Chaparral Books have won awards from the Texas Institute of Letters, Western Writers of America and the National Cowboy Hall of Fame. TCU Press books are available at the University bookstore.

WRITING EMPHASIS HOSTS RHETORICIAN

Dr. Andrea Lunsford, professor of rhetoric at Ohio State University and vice chairperson of its composition program, will inaugurate the Writing Emphasis Program's Speakers Forum with a discussion of "Learning Through Writing" Feb. 23. Author of The St. Martin's Handbook used in TCU composition classes, she is a nationally recognized scholar on writing across the curriculum and on the relationship between writing and students' learning processes.

Dr. Lunsford's address from 1 to 3 p.m. in Student Center Room 205 will be preceded by a noon luncheon in the Woodson Room. Luncheon reservations, limited to the first 100 respondents, should be made with Christina Murphy at Box 32875 no later than Friday.

SENIOR GIFT EVENT TO BE FEB. 28

A highlight for the 1990 Senior Class gift campaign is planned for Feb. 28. As a major event for spring activities planned by co-chairpersons Todd Breeding and Kathy Vandemore, seniors will have a special section for that evening's basketball game between the Horned Frogs and the Baylor Bears in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

The 1990 campaign marks the beginning of a different type of fundraising effort for seniors, according to Todd and Kathy. In the spotlight will be participation, class unity and awareness. A 35-percent participation level among Class of '91 members is the hoped-for goal.

WIND ENSEMBLE TO PLAY FRIDAY

Band director Bob Blanton will conduct the University's Wind Ensemble in concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Opening with Samuel Barber's Commando March, which was first performed during World War II by the Army Air Force Band, the ensemble also will play Symphony for Band by Paul Hindemith and Carl Maria von Weber's 2nd Concerto for Clarinet, featuring soloist Gary Whitman, associate professor of woodwinds. Also on the program will be "The Leaves Are Falling" by Warren Benson and Little English Girl Symphonic March by D. Delle Cese.

NOTES ON FOLKS

JERRY GROTTA (journalism) conducted a seminar Feb. 9 for the American Press Institute in Reston, VA. His topic was "Newspaper Circulation Retention." Jerry has been invited to conduct another seminar on newspaper management strategies at the API in April. In March he will address the American Marketing Association's Rio Grande Valley chapter in Harlingen. His topic will be "Marketing and Advertising Blunders."

MORE NOTES ON FOLKS

JOHN BREYER (geology) will serve on the Geological Society of America's Committee on Research Grants again this year. Each year the six-member committee awards approximately $200,000 in research support to doctoral candidates and other graduate students in geology and geophysics programs throughout the country. John previously served on the committee in 1987 and 1988.

RON SHIREY (music), who recently signed a contract extending his appointment as director of the Dallas Symphony Chorus through 1993, was hailed by symphony conductor Eduardo Mata as a skilled choral conductor whose "contribution to our growth has been meaningful." Ron has directed the chorus since 1983, and in that time, said Leonard David Stone, executive director of the Dallas Symphony Association, "it has emerged as a musical unit of world-class renown and professional abilities called by one recent guest conductor 'a musical instrument of security and communicative vitality'."

On Jan. 26 ANDY MIRACLE (sociology) delivered a presentation on "The Myth of High School Sport" at Southwestern University to students and faculty. He was impressed by the 40 students who showed up at 3 on Friday afternoon. Included in the audience were half a dozen varsity baseball players who had been excused from practice early by their coach so they could attend the lecture.

Historian DON WORCESTER will be honored upon the publication of his new book, "A Visit from Father and Other Tales of the Mojave," on Feb. 24 from 2 to 5 p.m. at Barber's Westcliff Bookstore, 15A Westcliff Center. Signed copies can be mailed to those who request them by calling 926-1051.

"Gravity in One Dimension: Persistence of Correlation," an article by BRUCE MILLER (physics) and graduate student CHARLES REID, appeared in the January issue of the Astrophysical Journal. The paper conclusively demonstrates that in one dimension memory effects in stellar systems last for thousands of orbital periods. The work raises the possibility that long-term memory effects may play a significant role in galaxy evolution.

Bruce recently returned from a week in Austin, where he and Greg Worrel, physicist at General Dynamics, presented their findings concerning chaotic motion in a periodically driven gravitational force at Dynamics Days, the annual conference on Nonlinear Dynamics.

Along with former Welch Foundation postdoctoral fellow YIZHONG FAN, Bruce was pleased to hear that their article, "Path-Integral Approach to Density Fluctuations in Self-Trapping Systems," will appear in the March issue of the Physical Review, part B.

LARRY WITHERS (Counseling Center/psychology) was co-presenter of a Jan. 26 program entitled "Research and Therapy with Adult Children of Alcoholics" at the annual convention of the Texas Association of Marriage and Family Therapy in San Antonio.

An article by BOB FRYE (English) entitled "Winston Estes's Minor Classic: 'Another Part of the House'" has been published in the Fall 1989 issue of Southwestern American Literature.
